Rabbi Yehuda Aryeh Leib Alter of Ger Sfas Emes Parshas Metzora

| Vayikra, Metzora, 1 | וַיָּקְרָא, מְצוֹרָע, א׳ |
|---|--|
| 5632 (תרל"ב) | תּרל״ב |
| In the Midrash, [it says:] "Metzora" [means] "Motzi Ra" (one who brings out evil), etc. | יַנּמָדְרָשׁ מְצוֹרָע מוֹצִיא רַע כּוּי. |
| Because what the Holy One, blessed be He, gave—the evil inclination—also to man, | פִי מַה שֶׁנָתַן הַשֵּׁם יִתְבָּרַךְ יֵצֶר הָרַע גַּם כֵּן לָאָדָם, |
| as it is in its general state, it is not opposed to the service of Hashem, | רְבְּמוֹ שֶׁהוּא בִּכְלָל אֵינוֹ מִתְנַגֵּד לַעְבוֹדַת הַשֵּׁם יִתְבָּרַף, |
| as it is said: "With both your inclinations," etc. | ָּבְמוֹ שֶׁנֶּאֱמַר בִּשְׁנֵי יֵצֶרֶךְ כּוּ׳. |
| Only [it is] when one brings it out of its general state. | רַק הַמּוֹצִיאוֹ מִן הַכְּלָל. |
| And it is possible that the two live pure birds | וְאֶפְשֶׁר שֶׁהַשְּׁתֵּי צִפְּרִים חַיּוֹת טְהוֹרוֹת |
| allude to the two inclinations, | רוֹמְזִים עַל ב׳ יֵצְרִים, |
| that just as He, blessed be He, gave them, they are pure, | שָׁבְּמוֹ שֶׁנְתָנָם הַשֵּׁם יִתְבָּרֵךְ הֵם טְהוֹרוֹת, |
| as it is said: "The soul that You have given me is pure," etc. | ָכְמוֹ שֶׁנֶּאֱמֵר נְשָׁמָה שֶׁנָתַתָּ בִּי טְהוֹרָה כּוּי. |
| If so, there is sufficient purity within man, | אָם כֵּן יֵשׁ דַּי טָהֶרָה תּוֹךְ הָאָדָם, |
| and only that he should not bring anything out from its root, as mentioned above. | וְרַק שֶׁלֹּא יוֹצִיא שׁוּם דָּבָר מִשֶּׁרְשׁוֹ כַּנַּ״ל. |

NOTE: Summary

This discourse explains that the Yetzer Hara (evil inclination) given by Hashem is not inherently evil.

In its original, general state, it does not oppose the service of G-d. Rather, it is the misuse or "bringing out" of the Yetzer Hara from its intended role that leads to corruption and evil. This idea is symbolized by the purification process of the Metzora (the one afflicted with tzara'at/leprosy), involving two live pure birds, which allude to the two inclinations (Yetzer Tov and Yetzer Hara), both created by Hashem as pure.

The soul, as Hashem created it, is fundamentally pure, and so too the inclinations.

Thus, man's task is not to distort his inner drives but to keep them connected to their Divine root, ensuring that everything remains within holiness.

Rabbi Yehuda Aryeh Leib Alter of Ger Sfas Emes Parshas Metzora

Practical Takeaway

- Do not see your impulses as bad even strong desires, drives, or emotions are, in their root, holy tools given by Hashem.
- The key is not to suppress your inner energies but to channel them correctly.
- Before acting on any impulse whether ambition, passion, or even anger ask vourself:
 - → Am I using this energy as it was rooted in holiness? Or am I twisting it outward?
- When you stay attached to the Divine source, even the Yetzer Hara can be transformed into a positive force for growth, commitment, and deeper service of Hashem.

Chassidic Story (True Story Related to the Rebbe, Rebbe Elimelech of Lizhensk)

One time, a young man came to Rebbe Elimelech of Lizhensk, crying bitterly:

"Rebbe! My heart burns with terrible passions! I feel so much evil within me... what should I do?"

Rebbe Elimelech smiled gently and said:

"Do not fear the fire within you. Hashem placed that fire there!

If you use it to serve Hashem — to daven with fervor, to learn Torah with intensity, to pursue acts of kindness with zeal — then even the passions that seemed evil will reveal their true root: they were holy all along."

He then added:

"A man with no fire cannot light up the world.

Your task is not to extinguish the fire.

Your task is to build a holy altar within yourself, and offer that fire upwards."

The young man left uplifted, realizing that his inner struggle was not a flaw, but an opportunity to rise even higher. END NOTE